I'm just not sure which site is the one to get it from. I found this site that offers it but asks you to transfer their money for the full version. Is that legal? It looks like it's a Russian-based one, but I can't say for sure. The other sites I found were Russian, which made me wonder from the start. Although, maybe the mod is just legally Russian designed? Page 2 35 comments Race Sim Studio recommends using For Assetto Corsa. The Content Manager is a brand new alternative launcher for Assetto Corsa. It consists of a complete list of standard launcher functions, as well as a huge extended functionality with advanced speed of ability and and Faster, more powerful, more convenient. All in one. ALL GAME MODES ADVANCED SESSION SETTINGS CARS AND TRACKS SELECTION ONLINE EASY-START MANAGEMENT PLENTY OF SETTINGS, USEFUL TOOLS, PLUGINS, CUSTOMIZATION AND MORE Set of utils and apps designed for Assetto Corsa. Some outdated projects move here. Shared Libraries Home Library used by any other project (including a car manager and even a modded KsEditor). Contains methods of working with shared AC files, launches the game and so on. A small JSGME mod management library, fully compatible, but with additional support for hard links. The thing to read the best lap times from different sources. Uses LevelDb to read from the original launcher (which saves time with IndexedDB Chromium). A small spin-off that loads time out of an old AC database. This was done using IndexedDB in Chrome, which uses LevelDB at the bottom. Pretty clutter if you want to read it. Fortunately, now it's completely redundant, I'm going to delete it forever. Replacement AcTools.Kn5Render. It has a much more thoughtful architecture and thus contains two different renderings: Lite (very simple skins editing DX10-compatible version) and Dark (advanced version of Lite, with lighting, skinning and many effects such as SSLR, SSAO, PCSS). Both use fast forward. There was also a deferred render, but it was rather poor and moved away. In addition to simple visualization, it has a bunch of special modes that allow you to update the surrounding shadows, AO maps, recalculate maps and outlines of tracks. Completely independent of the AcTools library, which generates license plates using Lua to interpret style files and Magick.NET to create and preserve textures. In action. A small library to filter objects on queries such as Ka ! (country: c' year 1990). A content manager's library with no logic, with almost no parts of the user interface (e.g. CarsManager and CarObject, for example). Wrapper for AcTools.SoundbankPlayer, which in turn is just a very trifle built around the FMOD library to play FMOD soundbanks. A small sub-device to load large files into different clouds. Can weight more than 2MB only with the official Google library, but self-written takes much less. Contains a bunch of diagnostics and repairs for common custom car problems in AC. A library with shared user interface components (such as AcListPage). The main UI library. Slightly modified version of the modern user interface for WPF (MUJ). The app itself. Other apps create previews with AcTools.Render. A small wrapper for the AcTools.Render library, for offline use without a content manager. A small console wrapper for the LicensePlates library. So long x86 platform only. Projects can be built in x64, but most likely it won't work. It needs to be fixed, all links library have both x86 and x64 versions. I'm going to work it out later. If you need support for new Windows 8, 8.1 and 10 notifications, make sure this path is the right one. If it's not, or you don't have this library, no problem, dependants part of the code will be disabled, and rollbacks will be used. I use a few small tools (mostly Cygwin Shell Scripts) to increment the number of versions and automatically build T4 templates automatically, but they are disabled by default if you don't have a ACTOOLS_BUILD_SCRIPTS'On Environment variable set. So... Don't install it, or make sure you have something compatible in your system. If necessary, I would be happy to send my scripts to you. You may need to install DirectX SDK to restore AcTools.Render/Shaders/Shaders.tt. But, in case, built Shaders.cs Shaders.resources are already included. Also, it takes quite a long time to recover these shaders, up to 5-10 minutes on my computer. Feel free to contact me at any time. I have no experience with open source projects, but I would be happy to learn. Custom launcher and content management app for Assetto Corsa. Still in development. From the authors of the Car Manager.
